

Basic Information-Getting Started

Fairies: Dust of the day

Your Wyrnwood Faeries They LOVE their food!

- 1 basic food basket feeds 2 faeries for 1 week.
- 1 medium food tray feeds 10 faeries for 1 week.
- 1 Mega Food Barrel feeds 6 Faeries for 1 month.
- Food comes in apples, oranges, and different sizes. In fitting your needs.
- Faeries eat 12 bites per day.
- Food baskets, trays, and barrels will disappear when food runs out.

Breeding Faeries Are Easy

Faeries will not be able to lay eggs if they are not in the same group as the owner.

Faeries can breed after they have reached 3 days old.

Faeries must recover for 3 days after breeding before they will be able to lay another egg.

For faeries to breed, the “Breed” button must be selected.

Faeries can be given a rest from breeding or kept as pets. The “No Breed” button must be selected.

Faerie eggs do not hatch on their own. The “start breed” must be selected.

An egg takes 5 minutes to hatch into a faery. The egg will disappear when the faery is born.

DO NOT PICK UP THE FAERY OR EGG DURING THIS PROCESS.

Caution Need To Know

Do not disturb your faeries while they are in the process of laying an egg.

Rumor has it that the last person to disturb their faeries while laying an egg is now a decaying tree stump on the edge of a remote forest.

Fairy Eating & Distress

- Wyrnwood fairies must eat to keep up their strength.
- When a fairy runs out of food, it will take 8 days until it starves.
- A fairy cannot breed if it is hungry.
- When a fairy reaches 100% hunger, it goes into distress. This does not mean it is dead; it is merely starving.
- Once more food is placed within the Faieres range, it will start eating once every 5 minutes until it is no longer hungry.
- Fairy will remain in a distressed state until hunger reaches zero.
- Food baskets and trays can be purchased at the Wyrnwood Main
