Wells Class Ship (modable)

Thank you for purchase one of Scaled Universe Ships!

The Wells Class were timeships used by Starfleet in the 29th century to protect the timeline against temporal incursions. The Wells Class was equipped with temporal transporters, an advancement on transporter technology allowing transport through space and time.

The USS Relativity (NCV-474439-G) was a Federation Wells Class timeship that was in service with Starfleet in the 29th century. It was commissioned at the University of Copernicus, and was under the command of Captain Braxton.

The vessel was equipped with powerful sensors capable of scanning throughout spacetime, and a temporal transporter capable of beaming an individual to virtually any point in space and time.
